BIG MEETINGS FOR BIG BUSINESS AT COURT HOUSE THIS AFTERNOON

Bay Reclamation Scheme and Dumbarton Bridge Project Will Be Fully Discussed

There will be a meeting of delegates of the various chambers of commerce and others in the rooms of the supervisors in the court house this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. At this meeting plans will be outlined and explained covering harbor development and land reclamation. A large delegation of the board of supervisors and citizens of San Francisco discussion of these matters will be had. The proposition is to build an immense sea wall all the way from Hunter's Point to Redwood City, and then fill in the land by dredging from outside the wall. In this way a large area would be developed for manufacturing sites, while at the same time the dredging operations would deepen the waters of the bay and make it posible for ships of large size to come right up to the landings.

A large number of members of the local chamber of comemrce will attend this important gathering.

The Dumbarton bridge project also will be discussed at length so that it will take tangible form and that steps may be taken to go on with the work.

MARSHALL HOME SOLD

Henry Witte of the realty firm of Letts & Witte has purchased the beautiful E. L. Marshall home on Hopkins avenue. It is the most attractive residence in that locality. The Marshalls, who have many warm friends in Redwood City, are to reside permanently in San Francisco. Their departure from the locality is a matter of deep regret.

NO BOOTLEGGERS NEEDED

A stranger dropped into town on Tuesday and after making a survey of the locality accosted a leading Redwood City citizen and in a whisper inquired as to where he could secure a drink. The leading citizen took the visitor along Broadway until he reached the court house. Pointing to it he said, "Stranger, thats' the only building in town in which you cannot get a drink." That's about the size of it.

DEBORAH ANDERSON WINS AFTER LONG CONTEST

The remittitur from the supreme court in the case of Mary A. Kerrigan and others against Deborah Anderson was received at the county clerk's office during the week. The case was brought by the plaintiffs against their sister, Deborah Anderson, to nullify the transfer of certain deeds executed by their mother in favor of the defendant, who always lived with her and cared for the old lady in her declining years, administering to her every want. Plaintiffs fought the case with much bitterness, taking it to the two higher courts and on each occasion meeting defeat. The property involved is worth $25,000. Franklin Swart was attorney for defendant. The case has been in court for three years.

SEQUOIA STUDENTS FULL OF PEP

By Mara Stilleson, '23

Did you know that on Thursday afternoon the Sequoia Union High School student body held the best and "peppiest" rally in the history of the school? All of 314 enthusiastic students crowded into the little old school assembly and for an hour the corridors rang with the sound of lusty voices. "Choke" Torres led the assembly in all the school yells, including six new and "peppy" ones, which enthusiastic supporters of Sequoia composed. The incentive for this rally was the big game of the basketball season with our old rivals, San Mateo. Speeches by the members of the team and Coach Griffin helped to arouse the old Sequoia spirit in the hearts of old and new Sequoians. Harry Maloney of Stanford University addressed the students and put stress on the fact that the team that cannot afford to lose does not deserve to win. He also spoke of "Teddy" Roosevelt's principle of "Play fair, be square, but always hit the line hard." Sequoia has always done this, but she is going to hit a little harder in the hope of carrying off the Peninsula Athletic League championship in both the unlimited and 130-pound aggregations.

Coach Griffin has every confidence in his unlimited quintet, which he says is the best the school has had, and is confident that the 130-pound players are capable of "putting 'em in" and holding their own against their rivals. Mr. Argo, Mr. Cuthbertson and Mrs. Hahn, faculty members, also spoke of the Sequoia spirit and the co-operation between students and teachers.

Last year the Sequoia unlimited five defeated San Mateo's unlimited in a close an dinteresting game of 16 to 12. The tie at 12-12 was broken in the last few minutes of play. The team and its supporters are confident that they will repeat the performance this season.

The 130-pound team met defeat at the hands of the San Mateo boys of the same weight last season, but this year will avenge their loss by reversing the score.

The students of Sequoia have every confidence in their team and every player has confidence in his coach and the coach has confidence in his teams, so why shouldn't we win. Just peek in at Sequoia next week and see how ew feel about it. Our spirit just won't be broken.

ARKUSH TO CONTROL BIG PALO ALTO MOVIE HOUSE

Ellis J. Arkush, proprietor of the Sequoia Theater of this city and the president of the Palo Alto Theater Company, announced yesterday that he had perfected plans for the erection of a modern, high class theater building on University avenue, Palo Alto, repreesnting in site, furnishing and the structure an investment of $160,000. The new theater will have a seating capacity of 1,200 persons and will have a large, well-equipped stage, enabling the managers to put on any of the better road shows which come to the coast from the east. The opening of the new theater will mean the closing of one of the other theaters now operated by the company, but which of the two will be abandoned has not been decided by the management.

While the new theater's entrance will be at 223 University avenue, the auditorium will back onto Ramona street, the building therefore being an L-shape. In order to secure the necessary site several property deals had to be negotiated. One piece was secured from H. W. Orr in exchange for the Weingartner pharmacy building, which the theater company had purchased from C. P. Cooley for this exchange purpose. The acquisition of the rear property involved three separate transactions. The first bit of property acquired was a lot from Mrs. Maria L. Perry on Ramona. Adjoining property on Ramona street was acquired from Frank Miller, including the portion running to his concrete garage building on Emerson street. The third piece of property acquired was the southeast corner of T. D. Dolings' property on Emerson street, which backs up the Perry lot.

According to the theater management, the business men who sold property for this purpose sacrificed personal interests for the success of the theater project, which they considered was for community benefit, and the theatrical men were warm in their expressions of gratitude for this co-operation.

Floyd's paint store wil be moved to a new location, the proprietor having given up his lease which still has time to run. Weingartner's pharmacy will remain at its present location.

The date for starting work on the new theater has not been decided. Assurance is given by the theater management that the building will be one of the finest in this section and the entrance on the avenue will be ornamental in type.

The Palo Alto Theater Company was formed last May by a consolidation of the Stanford and Varsity Theaters, the purpose being as the management explained, "in order to be able to secure the best pictures and to make possible the erection of a new modern theater."

Mr. Arkush has a big interest in the moving picture business on the peninsula. Besides owning the two show houses in Palo Alto and the one in Redwood City he also controls the business at Burlingame.

BEAUTIES OF SANTA CRUZ HILLS

The Harr Wagner Publishing Company of San Francisco has just published a book of poems entitled "Echoes of Other Days." The poems were written by Howard Glyndon, mother of Mrs. John L. McGinn, trustee of the city of San Mateo. The book shows much literary ability. One of the poems of special interest to people of this part of California is as follows

THE HILLS OF SANTA CRUZ

I've seen the far-off Appenines
Melt into dreamy skies;
I've seen the peaks the Switzers love
In snowy grandeur rise;
And many more, to which the world
Its praise cannot refuse—
But of them all, I love the best
The hills of Santa Cruz.

Oh, how serenely glad they stand,
Beneath the morning sun!
Oh, how divinely fair they are
When morn to noon hath run!
How virginal their fastnesses,
Where no Bacchante woos
The kisses of the grapes that grow
On the hills of Santa Cruz!

And then, how beautiful they look
Just when the sun departs,
With benediction on their brows
And homesteads on their hearts.
O hills of Promise, Peace, and Joy!
No heart could well refuse
To own the charm of your delights,
Dear hills of Santa Cruz!

When the reluctant sun hath gone
And left ye lone and sweet,
What rapture then to trace the line
Where earth and heaven meet.
So low ye lie beneath the sky
We ne'er can you accuse
Of harshness or repellant pride,
Kind hills of Santa Cruz!

Ah! no; ye are forever dear
And restful to the eyes,
Tho' ever changeful, yet each change
Is but a glad surprise.
'Twixt gentle skies and gentle seas,
Your outlines never lose
The tenderness that Eden knew,
Calm hills of Santa Cruz!

You stand before us like to those
Meek angels sent of God,
Who chanted blessings on the earth's
Inbrued and guilty sod;
So ye, sweet ministers of hope,
In mind and heart infuse,
Peace and good will on earth, O dear,
Dear hills of Santa Cruz!

And if I be the first to lay
The laurels at your feet,
Why, then, my heart can only say
The task is pasing sweet,—
For sure I am and sure we are
Who ne'er your outlines lose,
There are no hills to match our own
Glad hills of Santa Cruz!

GRAND JURY RECOMMENDS JUDGE LAMB BE OUSTED FROM OFFICE

Also Wants Burlingame Gates to Carry Red Lights and Not Interfere With Autos

The county grand jury that has been in sesison since last November was discharged by Judge Buck late yesterday afternoon. J. L. Kent was the foreman and Mrs. J. H. Reardon secretary The county expert presented a lengthy report. He gave a clean bill of health to all the officials. The report of the jury is not sensational. It is as follows:

To the Hon. Geo. H. Buck, judge of the superior Court of San Mateo county, Redwood City.—The following is a report of the grand jury impaneled by you for the 1921 and 1922 terms.

The grand jury visited the county jail and wish to commend those in charge for the excellent condition and method of conducting it.

The grand jury visited the detention home and emergency hospital and feel that the county is to be congratulated and those in charge commended for the good work being done in both institutions, and would recommend that a heavy screen be attached to one of the doors at the juvenils home as a further means of preventing escape.

The county farm and hospital was visited by the members of the grand jury and made a thorough inspection and found that under the existing conditions everything was run in a very satisfactory manner, and on interviewing a number of inmates found no complaints but rather words of praise for those in charge. The grand jury wishes to recommend that the reading room be made more cheerful for those who find it necessary to live there.

It was brought to our attention that a large number of accidents on the highway were caused by the gates at the entrances of the city of Burlingame and the folowing resolution was passed:

Resolved that as it has been brought to the attention of the grand jury that a number of accidents on the highway have been caused by automobiles colliding with the gates at the entrance of the city of Burlingame, we recommend that the board of trustees of the city of Burlingame have a red light placed on the gates not higher than 24 inches from the ground as this has been found very effective in San Francisco in reducing accidents at the safety stations.

It was brought to our attention that Porter E. Lamb, justice of the peace of the second township of this county, has failed to carry out the duties of his office and has been absent from the county for approximately two years. The folowing resolution was therefore adopted by the grand jury:

Resolved, that the grand jury instruct the auditor, J. J. Shields, to stop payment of any further warrants to said Porter E. Lamb as justice of the peace of the second township of San Mateo county for either salary or expenses, and

It is further resolved that the district attorney, Franklin Swart, be hereby instructed to take all necessary steps to prevent the collection of any further salary or expenses by said Porter E. Lamb as justice of the peace of said second township and that he investigate the possibility of recovering the salary and expenses heretofore paid to the said Porter E. Lamb as justice of the peace, and if he determines that any amount has been collected illegally by the said Porter E. Lamb as said justice of the peace during his absence from the county that he take all necessary action to recover such amounts.

Mr. Stollery, expert in the employ of this grand jury, ha scalled to our attention a lax and unsatisfactory system, or rather lack of system, in the required endorsement of certain county officials through whose office the said warrants pass. This applies especially to the method of payment of school warrants, which unsatisfactory method was referred to in the report of a previous grand jury receiving very scant consideration. Under the conditions above referred to and made a part of this report, this grand jury strongly recommends that all county claims be passed through the proper channels and receive the O. K. of the official whose duties call for the same and we further recommend that should these officials require aditional clerical assistance to comply with these requirements that the same be granted on a proper showing.

The matter of the dependency fund of the high schools of the county was brought to our attention and on investigation, the superintendent of schools, Mr. Cloud, informed us that the only school drawing on that fund the sum of $10 for each dependent up to the number of three, was the San Mateo High School, and on investigation it was found that the San Mateo High School teachers were paid the highest salaries in the county. Therefore it was resolved that the grand jury recommend that the superintendent of schools, Mr. Cloud, and the trustees of the San Mateo High School take steps to relieve the taxpayers of the unnecessary and unjust expense.

The grand jury received a very comprehensive report from the expert accountant, Mr. Stollery, and takes this opportunity to commend and recommend him to further grand juries.

A BIGGER HOSPITAL

Word has come from Washington that the government has decided to make the hospital at Menlo Park twice as large as announced in the original plans. That means an expenditure of nearly three million dollars in buying sites, erection of the buildings and supplying the furnishings. It means also that a much larger force will be required to conduct the work at the hospital efficiently. Public sentiment has been roused against makeshift institutions and the authorities are going to provide facilities against which no adverse comment can be made.

Not only the location at this point but the additional equipment as well is something of great significance. Investigators for the government visited all parts of the country seeking suitable locations. Each had to possess transportation facilities suitable for easy access; each naturally must have climatic conditions that would be favorable for invalids such as are to be treated. The government does not stop at expense when it comes to getting things wanted. So it has selected several sites in the United States for location of large hospitals. Apparently the Menlo sits is considered one of the best, as it should be to justify the expenditure that has been announced.

This means a tremendous amount of free and favorable advertising for this locality. The mere mention of the institution will be only a small portion of it. Men from all parts of the country will be brought here for treatment. Some of their friends will visit them from time to time. The patients returning to their homes will have much to say of the glories and advantages of this section. Every visitor will be questioned eagerly as to what advantages California possesses. They will have much to say about it. Hence there devolves upon the peninsula people the duty of seeing that these visitors have every facility for learning all they can. They need only be told the exact truth to be convinced of the advantage of living in this part of the country. Not only Menlo Park, Redwood City and the immediate vicinity are interested in this matter, but the whole of the peninsula. Heretofore there has been a fair amount of co-operation among the peninsula communities in looking after welfare of patients and visitors. It is more than any one community can handle. So it would be advisable that an organization should be formed to handle the whole business. The Red Cross is doing its full share nobly and will continue to serve. Organizations of women are serving to make the lives of patients more pleasant, while the American Legion is mindful of obligations to the soldiers. Other organizations assist from time to time. But for the enlarged service it will require active co-operation along all lines. It is advisable, therefore, that immediate steps be taken to enlist the services of all organizations under one general head, distribute the work and see that it is done well. It will be done best if preparation is made in advance.

A LENIENT CREDITOR

Commenting on the McCormick resolutio asking for information concerning the revenues, debts and current exponses of other nations, the Washington Star publishes an article declaring that this is a first call upon other nations to pay their debts to us. It is nothing of the sort and the only apparent purpose and effect of the statement is to embarrass the administration in dealing with European nations. There has been no call now or heretofore for the payment of the debts. There has been a repeated expression of desire to have the debt funded into negotiable bonds fixing a definite time of payment. In his campaign for election and since, President Harding declared his belief that the money due should be paid and there has never been any doubt that the Republicans of the senate and house are with him on that proposition. But there has never been any intimation from the president or anyone else that this country desires to press collection in any unreasonable manner. No creditor certainly was ever more lenient than we have been and not one of our debtors will say to the contrary. The Star may think the United States a hard creditor, but we do not agree with it.

REAPING AS THEY SOWED

According to an apologist for the bolsheviki of Russia, the great need of that country today is "men of the foremen and works manager class;" in fact he puts this need ahead of the need for either food or medicine. We can readily believe that this states the situation with a fair degree of accuracy, for the whole policy of the bolshevists has been such as to drive out any men already in Russia out of the class qualified for the supervision of work and to keep out others who might contemplate going to that country to help in reviving the almost defunct productive industries.

Setting aside all the teachings of the experience of all nations since the beginning of recorded history, the bolsheviki undertook to establish an absolute equality of individuals by leveling down from the top. The most capable, who had accumulated some wealth by ability, diligence and thrift, were despoiled. Those who had come into the ownership of manufacturing plants by reason of their fitness for successful management were deposed and the "proletariat" placed in control. Not only were the owners deposed from the management, but their rights in the property were confiscated. If they made any effort to assert the rights of ownership they were imprisoned or put to death. Even if they were permitted to remain, all incentive to personal effort was removed and the men qualified for "work management" became either non-productive or producers merely through their own individual physical efforts and not through their ability to direct the work of others.

Russia's new leaders have realized too late the utter fallacy of their theories of industrial management. Like landlubbers who turn pirate on the high seas, they seized the ship and threw the navigators overboard and canot call them back to guide the ship through tempestuous billows. They are likely to find, as pirates would under similar circumstances, that they will not only fail to operate the ship themselves, but they will soon lose the confidence of the seamen and will themselves meet the fate they decreed for their betters.

The salvation of Russia rests almost entirely in the hands of her own people. Outside influence may help, but not much. It is but a temporary expedient to send a few cargoes of food to the suffering. There can be no permanent relief—no restoration of industrial prosperity—until fundamental conditions have been changed by a return to those principles of human rights which have been demonstrated by human experience to be essential to human progress.

It may be readily conceded that in Russia at the time of Lenine's advent conditions were not perfect. That is true everywhere and will be true as long as human beings remain less than divine in their attributes. But it is also true that no one man, like Lenine also partaking of the frailties of human nature, can arbitrarily overthrow established principles and customs for the arbitrary regulation of the political, industrial and social affairs of a great nation.

That is what Lenine and his associates endeavored to do. They accepted their own ideas as superior to the ideas developed through the hundreds of thousands of years of human progress from barbarism to civilization and they sought to force those ideas upon all mankind. They have failed and will continue to fail. If they want foremen and work managers to assist in restoring production they must get them by recognizing human rights as recognized and established throughout the entire world.

SELF CONDEMNATION

When the federal reserve amendment was before the senate members of the Democratic party were most vociferous in condemnation of the work of the board in the past. They must not overlook the fact that the acts they condemn were committed while the Democratic administration had full control. There has been no criticism of the acts of the board since the Republicans came into power. This is something the great American voter will not overlook.

Duck Hunting Reminiscences

By CLAUDE FOX

Story No. 41

It has at various times, whenever the few remaining duck hunting boys of yesterday have been assembled, relating the experiences of bygone days and the adventures of each in connection therewith, been a matter of general discussion and argument as to which particular locality, favored by one or the other, produced the most webfoots in the days that are gone forever, and which the present generation and those of the future will never see again in this locality. Not only that, but it has been intimated by some of those who are past grand masters in the art of wild duck hunting and shooting that the boys of today do not have the stamina, the staying qualities or the "pep" whichever you may choose to call it, which was a predominant characteristic of those who now remain and the many who have passed on to their eternal rest.

On the latter proposition I am going to stand squarely, flat-footedly, so to speak, by the younger generation, the duck hunting boys of today, for I know them all; at least those in this immediate vicinity, their parents and in a good many cases thir grandparents, and I see no reason to hastily arrive at the conclusion that these lads of today are not possessed of the same qualifications, both mentally and physically, and capable of enduring the same hardships and in some cases privations, as those who have preceded them in the pursuit of wild water fowl.

It must be remembered that circumstances are far different than they were from 30 to 40 years ago. It did not require hard work at that time to acquire a fine fat bunch of the birds of the marshland; the feathered tribe was so plentiful that you could almost knock a mess over with a stick, let alone the necessity of carrying a shotgun. Wild ducks were everywhere and it is only necessary for me to say that Fred Stalter and myself have sold hundreds of green winged teal for 50 cents a dozen to show you how plentiful they were upon the market. Under similar circumstances I believe the boys of today would be just as enthusiastic and just as energetic and full of "pep" in every respect as those of yesterday in the acquisition of the birds which nine boys out of ten are so desirous of obtaining. When one is compelled to hunt from daylight until dark in order to obtain a few straggling shots at the webfoots it is enough to discourage any man or boy in the pursuit of game. Among my acquaintances are several young lads who think nothing of hopping into a scull boat and going eight or ten miles across the bay to the Alameda county shore after the birds they all love so well. Weather conditions have at all times to be contended with, and hunting in a small open boat you are taking the chances of reaching home safely when caught out in the bay in a wind or having a deputy coroner bring what remains back for a duck hunter's funeral. That is what I call nerve, grit and "pep" combined, and I take my hat off to the boys of today, knowing what they have to contend with.

As to the first proposition, I sometimes feel that I am not qualified to judge, even with all my experience to back up my opinions. The Little gravel bed, just below town, and the pond at the first fence have to my knowledge yielded up thousands upon thousands of the game birds and were for years doing the saem thing before I ever owned a shotgun. Personally I have killed more ducks at the little Sweeny pond than anywhere else, although many a fine bundle fell to my No. 12 at the gravel bed, where a large spring of fresh water bubbled out of the ground and attracted the birds during the moonlight nights. There are but two men living here today who could tell you the complete history of that little basin-like puddle and the grand shoots had there by the earlier hunters. They are John F. Ford and Chase Littlejohn, both of whom were years ahead of me in the sport that will live forever.

Here "Spot" Ayres, Jim Viner, Alec Little, Frank Baird, Byron Underwood, McEvoy boys, Lon Cook, Sam Hall, Bert Adams and many others held their moonlight carnivals long before I was permitted to venture forth. Later on came the Winter boys, Joe and George, and when they were not tenants of the little gravel bed, John Fehrn, Sr., and his son-in-law, Jack Genochio, would keep the back sticks warm while waiting for the chirp of the elusive little green winged teal.

But when all has been said that can be concerning the merits of any particular locality in respect to this subject I will not permit the discussion to cease without giving three cheers and a tiger for the Cooley ranch at Ravenswood, where the greatest wild duck shooting was had on moonlight nights for many successive years. How many ducks were killed there I would not attempt to estimate. It was nothing unusual to see from 15 to 20 hunters in the field at once, scattered around 100 yards apart, and the noise of the cackling widgeon blotting out the sound of exploding firearms.

Just as soon as any of the boys located some place which the wild birds seemed to favor there was a stampede by other hunters similar to a miners' strike, and soon "pay dirt" would be exhausted and we would have to look elsewhere. For this reason we boys were continually seeking some place where we could shoot undisturbed. It was on one of these exploring expeditions that I met with an experience that was as amusing as it was exasperating.

"Squinty," Still Sears, myself and Sam Murch, brother of Mrs. Lila Kirkpatrick of this city, were hunting together. Still was a very keen observing fellow and he suggested that we take a look down at the fourth fence on the Sweeny ranch, about a half mile west of the Flood pond, where a deep ditch carried the rain water to the edge of the marshland, and sure enough feathers and tracks were found in sufficient numbers to justify the belief that the wild ducks had been visiting that locality in large numbers. So we decided to remain and shoot there that evening.

It was early in the afternoon, so out we went into the sloughs to hunt and pass the time away until sundown. Sam and myself soon got tired and coming back to the fence sat down to await the return of our companion. As we came in I noticed a number of men and dogs beating around in the dead tarweed down by the line of the Flood property. Now I never knew, or at least did not at that time, that one of the chief sports of an Irishman was hare and hounds. It was, however, very forcibly impressed upon my mind before the day was over. As all the boys know, there is between the main land and the marsh grass a strip from 30 to 40 yards wide called the mud flats, upon which no vegetation grows. At times the strip is covered with water during the high or spring tides, but later becomes quite dry and makes a fine pathway for walking.

Sam and myself sat down at the edge of this flat and were casually watching the men at the lower end of the field, not realizing what they were doing.

All at once, up the mud flat, coming directly toward us, was a jackrabbit. Now if ever one of those long-eared fellows flew over the smooth surface of the ground that rabbit was the boy to take a prize. His ears were laid straight across his back and he seemed to fairly skim over the flat. We both spotted him about the same time when he was 100 yards away.

"Sit still, Sam," I said. "I'll get him," and as he attempted to go by 30 yards off to the side of us, I let drive and knocked him over. Sam ran out and brought him to where I was sitting and while we were admiring the speed with which that rabbit had come up the mud flat, we noticed a sudden commotion among the men at the lower end of the field. They were all coming toward us, some on the run, others in a hasty walk and we saw that they had with them four beautiful, fine limbed greyhounds. As they approached nearer I readily recognized them, as they were all from Menlo Park and to me quite well known. In the lead was Pat Linehan and William Casey, father of our "Billy Casey," Menlo's warbler; then came Con and P. J. Maloney, Barney Burke and Father Riordan. They all seemed over anxious to get where Sam and I were now standing. Sam had the jackrabbit in his hand, proud as a peacock, and I really began to think it was a delegation coming to compliment me on the shot I had made. How the reality sometimes differs from a surmise. If there was ever a wild bunch of Irishmen between the old fourth fence on the Sweeny ranch and the green coast line of the Emerald Isle it was those gentlemen from Menlo Park. Linehan was the first to reach us and he grabbed the rabbit out of Sam's hands with a jerk coupled with an oath that would have done justice to the king of blasphemy. I thought we were both going to be strung up and quartered in short order. They accused us of killing the hare and thus spoiling a gentleman's sport, and when I jumped into the breach to save my friend and declared that I killed it, that it was my rabbit and I had a perfect right to it, I was subjected to a storm of abuse that was almost withering. We were both nothing but kids and we had to stand and take it. Finally they went on up the field, the proud possessors of my first fleet footed jackrabbit, leaving me as my only solace the knowledge of what constitutes the sport of an Irishman and recollections for years to come, whenever I see a jackrabbit, of my experience that day with that hostile, wild-eyed delegation from the beautiful, oak-bedecked village of Menlo Park.

SUMMER EUROPEAN TOUR

Rev. J. W. Lundy, pastor of the Howard Presbyterian Church, Oak and Baker streets, San Francisco, well known in central and northern California as an organizer and conductor of European parties, is now organizing another party for the coming summer vacation.

The company of 30 people which he took through Europe last summer had a memorable and most enjoyable trip, and never did a company of tourists return home more enthusiastic and delighted over their experience than the members of that party. The itinerary for the coming season includes the principal cities of the following countries: France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Holland, Belgium, England, Scotland and Ireland.

A visit to the battlefields of the late war and to Oberammergau to witness a performance of the farfamed "Pasison Play" will be special features of the trip this coming summer.

The business management of the party will be in the hands of the travel department of the American Express Company. This arrangement gives the members of the party an absolute guarantee of protection against loss or embarrassment on the trip, the positive assurance that they will be properly taken care of and that all provisions of the itinerary will be carried out regardless of the unexpected illness, financial embarrassment or other mishap that might befall the individual organizer and leader. The cost of the trip will be much less than last year, owing to the reduction of rail artes on the continent and the contemplated reduction of steamship rates on the Atlantic.

The itinerary, giving all the details of the trip and all the necessary information in regard to baggage, passports, steamer reservations, price and conditions of membership, is now in printed form and Mr. Lundy will be glad to mail copies to all who are contemplating an European trip.

We understand that a few copies can be secured by applying at the local office of the express company.

There is a "talking automobile" on the market. That's fair enough. Considering all the things that have been said to an automobile it ought to have the right to talk back.

MENLO PARK NEWS

Lucien Shaw, chief justice of the supreme court of the state of California, spent the week end with Judge and Mrs. Charles A. Shurtleff at their pretty home in Menlo Oaks. Judge Shaw will most likely retire at the expiration of his term next January, when he will have completed 20 years on the supreme bench. For over 18 years he has been an associate justice in that court. He is a man of great learning. He is accounted one of the ablest judges who has ever sat upon the supreme bench.

Sig Stern and wife left for New York last week to spend the winter. Their daughter, Mrs. Haas, preceded them some days before.

Herbert Fleishhacker and wife will depart for the east tomorrow. They will go direct to New York and from there to Washington, whereo Mr. Fleishhacker and a committee from San Francisco will confer with the president and Mr. Lasker, president of the shipping board. They are to seek aid for the $30,000,000 shipping merger now being formed in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Heller returned from New York yesterday. They went east to be with their young son for the holidays. He is in college there. He is a very bright and clever young man.

The trustees of the Runnymede school district contemplate calling a bond election to raise $25,000 for more facilities. The present grammar school building is entirely inadequate for the needs of the growing community. The scholars cannot be accommodated and the quarters are cramped. It is proposed to make an addition of several rooms to the present building. It is estimated that this improvement will cost about the sum named. Two teachers were all that were required two years ago. Now there are six and when the new quarters are built several more will be added to the faculty. This is an indication of how the chicken colony is growing.

There has arrived at the Little Green Door a large stock of valentines which are displayed in an attractive manner. The assortment is sure to please young and old. The prices are much lower this year than last. Inspect the large stock before buying elsewhere.

For over four months a corps of painters has been at work on the Flood mansion and yesterday the work was completed of painting this structure and all outside buildings and fences. The beautiful home looks spick and span for the owners who will occupy it on March 1. J. H. Keefe Company of San Francisco had the contract.

Henry J. Reandeau, who came to Menlo during the war and engaged in the garage business conducting the Camp Garage, shook the dust of Menlo Park from his feet yesterday and departed for Oakland to permanently reside. The Triumph Theatre building, which he occupied for a while past has been rented for a Japanese laundry. The building occupied by these laundrymen at Palo Alto was destroyed by fire recently and they had to secure new quarters, there being none for rent in the college town.

Supervisor MacBain will shortly begin work on Middle avenue, running from the highway at a point where the government warehouses stood during the war and continuing to Santa Cruz avenue just beyond the Holy Cross cemetery. The street will be turnpiked and macadamized as far as Lemon avenue. The residents of that locality will hail with delight the contemplated improvement.

H. F. LaPeer, who was arrested some time ago by federal agents and charged with violating the provisions of the Volstead act at the old Logan home, and who claimed that the alleged whisky was hair tonic, was named as defendant in a suit filed Wednesday by the United Parcel Service. The claim is made that La Peer bought an automobile truck on which there is a balance of $800 due. Attorney's fees to the amount of $220 are asked also.

Mrs. M. Dorgan, widow of the late Michael Dorgan, passed away at Santa Cruz on January 20. After the death of her husband two years ago she moved to that city, where she lived with Miss Alta Randle. Interment was held at Holy Cross cemetery Monday, where she was laid to rest beside her long mourned daughter and husband.

Mr. Dorgan was for many years head of the plumbing department of the Pacific Improvement Company. He had charge of all the plumbing work done on Hotel Del Monte at Monterey, the Hopkins place here and other big buildings of the company, which was a branch of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. Dorgan and his wife lived here for many years, where they were well known and liked.

They've changed it again—the name of the government hospital at Menlo Park. No sooner do we get used to calling the institution by its proper seasonal name than it is changed again and we have to start over in being on our guard against using the officially abandoned appellation. And there are many people who don't take the pains to keep up with the tims, as some are caling the hospital by one name, while others cling to an older or adopt a newer one. So there is always confustion in our terminology.

At first the hospital was called the Fremont Base Hospital and later abbreviated to Base. Then came a change in the status of things and the title Base was outlawed in favor of United States Public Health Service Hospital No. 24. Letters from Washington urged that care be taken that the institution be referred to correctly and we practiced faithfully until we got accustomed to saying "United States Public Health Service Hospital" instead of using the more convenient name of "Base."

Now comes word from Washington that a new name is in order. The institution can be referred to properly in only one wa yand that is by calling it the United States Veterans' Hospital. No intimation is given, however, as to how long that name will remain in vogue.—Palo Alto Times.

HELP! HELP!

WANTED—Dead cows, cats, dogs, horses, etc., to complete the garbage dump on Southern Pacific station grounds just north of baggage room at Palo Alto. Tin cans, waste paper, lawn clippings and brush is already there in abundance, but the dead animals are greatly needed to give the odor and finish required. Leave at dump.

VALENTINO DANCED INTO MOVIE WORLD

Rudolph Valentino, the celebrated young dancer who has the leading male role in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," a Rex Ingram production for the Metro to be seen next week at the Sequoia Theater, found his way to fame and fortune through his nimble feet.

When you see Valentino in this screen adaptation of the world famous novel of Vincente B. Ibanez by June Mathis and notice his finished acting, the sure swagger of the cafe scenes laid in the Argentine, the polish of his manner in interpreting the student and lover in Paris, it will be your unquestionable opinion that here is a man initiated in theatrical ways as a child.

But it was neither as a dancer nor an actor that Valentino hoped to take fortune by storm. It was in the more humble sphere as a prospective agriculturist that he came to the United States at the age of 18, a graduate from the Royal Military College of Agriculture at Genoa. As he planned his future he would become one of the great land owners in this country of opportunity.

But things happened swiftly for him in New York. Soon he was busy teaching Broadway's regulars his graceful steps. He appeared at Rector's as a dancing partner of Bonnie Glass, following this engagement with one at the Winter Garden and a long term contract in vaudeville.

From dancing to motion pictures was an easy step. His first picture with Mae Murray in "The Big Little Person." When Rex Ingram in his painstaking search for the type to portray the pleasure-loving South American of "The Four Horsemen" saw Valentino, he chose him for the part.

EAGLES WILL HOLD SESSION AT HALFMOON BAY

The Associated Aeries of the Fraternal Order of Eagles of San Mateo County will hold their monthly session at Halfmoon Bay on February 19 to complete arrangements for the state convention to be held at Santa Cruz next June. Preliminary arrangements were made at a meeting held in this city last Sunday.

After the business meeting the members discussed the Dumbarton bridge and other topics of count interest, from the standpoint of community advancement.

The county aerie was organized about 18 months ago, the idea having originated with Arthur Bodine of Daly City, first president of the association. The state president has recommended that the county organization plan be adopted by other sections of the state.

The world contains too many men who think that when all is lost save honor, they may as well make a clean sweep of it and allow honor to go too.

Then there are the sloppy moving pictures which are so moving that they move the audience to a desire to throw bricks at them.

The dullest wit in the world can find a good excuse for not working.

$500 FINE FOR AUTO DRIVING WHILE WOOZY

Harry Cleary was arrested in Burlingame last September and charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated. He came up for trial before Judge Hudner on Thursday, was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $500 or go to jail for 250 days. His attorney, Jas. T. O'Keefe, made a strong plea for probation, representing that the prisoner's wife was ill and unable to care for herself. The case has been under investigation by the county probation officer.

Mrs. W. H. Doxsee was hostess at a delightful party Thursday afternoon at her home on Arlington road. Games and conversation passed the time quickly and a delicious repast was enjoyed at the close of the afternoon. Those who attended were Mrs. J. R. Fox and son, Mrs. Earl Eikerenkotter and son, Mrs. C. H. Stevens, Miss Catherine Gestlebraucht, Mrs. C. Woodhams and children, Mrs. R. S. Dodge and son, Mrs. P. Coombes, Miss Mildred Proctor, Mrs. W. H. Doxsee and daughter.

FAILED TO EXPLAIN— GETS THIRTY DAYS

Robert John Hooper, aged 19, is in the county jail for 30 days because he couldn't or wouldn't explain to the Burlingame authorities why he was there. He was arrested while loitering about the streets and was given a chance to justify his reason for being on earth and especially his reason for being in Burlingame. As he did not make an explanation that explained he was comitted to the county jail for 30 days to meditate on the subject.

growing with California

Success in business is measured by growth and service. The only limit to success of this kind is opportunity.

The Bank of Italy believes that where the requirements of any community indicate a need for large, metropolitan banking facilities, there is an opportunity for growth and service.

Today the important agricultural and commercial interests of California offer a challenge to the financial institutions of the State to keep pace with their steady, continuous growth.
